NECTAR

June 2019 – Special issue

ANU NECTAR Forum – 2 July 2019 »

Ask questions to the University Executive in a collective and powerful voice. Every year, teachers and researchers of ANU meet to discuss the skills and support they need most to overcome the challenges they are facing. Curious to find out more? Check out this newsletter or have a look at the NECTAR website.

Registrations close 16 June (partial attendance is possible). And yes, it is free!

Have your say and make a difference »

Tuesday 2 July – 9.45am
National Museum of Australia

In this session, EMCAs will collectively brainstorm questions and ideas for the University Executive.

Including discussions on intersectional diversity, casual-sessional inclusion, non-academic careers and transparency around finance and hiring at ANU.

ANU Services Market »
Tuesday 2 July – 11.15am
National Museum of Australia

Do you think you know all the services available to you at ANU? Come and find out at the ANU Services Market. Including representation from the Tjabal Centre, Statistical Consulting Unit, ANU Ethics Office, Innovation ANU and more.

Roundtable with ANU Provost »
Tuesday 2 July – 1pm
National Museum of Australia

Ask questions to Provost Professor Mike Calford in a powerful and collective voice. If you have a question you would like to ask, join the discussion at 9.45am or submit your question to NECTAR.

How will ANU nurture its EMCAs to ensure that ANU is a high-impact university? »

Tuesday 2 July – 3pm
National Museum of Australia

Join this panel discussion with Sara Bice from the Crawford School of Public Policy, CSIRO Chief Scientist Cathy Foley, Director of CEAT Mary Kelly and Deputy Vice-Chancellor (Research and Innovation) Keith Nugent.

Post-event networking »
Tuesday 2 July – 4.30pm

Not yet ready to go home? Stick around for post-event drinks and nibbles and wind down in the company of your friends and colleagues.

Family members are welcome at all NECTAR events.
